

You are light,
when the earth is bright and booming.
You are light,
when no one else is looking.
You are light,
beneath silver skies and pouring rain,
under the mango sun and morning haze.
You are light,
when the rest of the world is sleeping,
and when your wildest dreams wake up with you.
You are light,
when your joy spills like milk,
that your laughter can't contain.
In the rising and the falling,
In the dark and the day,
You are light.

~you are light
Elle Redman